

Dragonfly Class New

May 21st, 2018

We hope you enjoyed the beautiful weekend with your families! The end of the year is coming up fast and I just want to give you a heads up about happenings. Next week will be our last full week in class, we will spend it making our Father's Day projects, cleaning our toys for the next friends and visiting other classroom for next year. The following week (June 11-13) we will be in class Monday & Tuesday for an ice cream party and then to Felida Park for our all school picnic.

Bikes

This will be the last week we will have bikes out for the year. Beginning next week several classes have graduation and we will need the parking that the fence takes up. We are having a lot of fun with buried treasures in the sand area. The children have had a lot of enjoyment not only finding the treasures but also reburying it for other children.

Book Bags

This will be the last week for book bags to go home, we won't send them back starting next Monday. If you can't find the book that was borrowed you can send in an inexpensive preschool friendly book to replace it.

This Week in the Dragonfly Class

This week in the Dragonfly Class we will be continuing our exploration into the ocean! We will be making shells, jelly fish, octopus and sharks for our ocean. We will also be reading one of my favorite books, a guessing book about getting to the beach How Will I Get to the Beach? During the week we will also be watching part of the documentary on Netflix called Ocean Wonders.

Word Wall

This week will be featuring Z! The last full week of school (next week) we will have free choice for the word wall, your child can bring in whatever they would like to share, and we will figure out what letter it starts with.
